Figure 4-6. Annual water budget for several wetlands including (above) a. alluvial cypress swamp in southern Illinois (after Mitsch, 1979); b. a Lake coastal marsh in northern Ohio (March through September, 1988 only, drought year; after Mitsch and Reeder, 1992); c. a black mangrove southwestern Florida (after Twilley, 1982, as cited in S. Brown, 1968, as cited in Winter, 1989); d. prairie pothole marshes in North Dakota (average of 10 wetlands; after Richardson, 1983 as cited in Brown, 1990); e. the Okefenokee Swamp watershed in Georgia (after Rykiel, 1984); and (opposite page) f. a rich fen in northern Wales (after Gilman, 1982); g. the Green Swamp region of central Florida (after 1966 as cited in Carter et al., 1979); h. Thoreau's Bog, Concord, Massachusetts (after Hemond, 1980, as cited in Brown, 1990); i. a pocosin swamp 3 years; after Richardson, 1983 as cited in Brown, 1990). All values are expressed in cm/yr unless otherwise noted. See Figure 4-5 for symbol definitions.